

Peter Brabyn

Biography

Peter has had an eventful life, in his 40's he has served with the defence forces, buried his parents, and studied various forms of the occult. He has been active in the Pagan community but now prefers to remain on the sidelines away from any bickering that can occur.

Throughout his life Peter has made many mistakes, with career, money, friendships and more, each one a learning opportunity that has helped him to grow into a person that he is completely happy with.

Peter currently works as a full time teacher and is studying towards a degree in education. He enjoys an active social life and likes discussing the philosophies and theosophy associated with all faith systems through various online communities.

Workshop Outline

What Men Want

This will be a guided discussion about the role of men in what are often seen as "Goddess Religions". It will seek to discover the role of masculinity and to define it.

It will look at the traditional roles of the male and attempt to bring them into perspective in the 21st century, how this has an effect on the whole being, not just the Pagan, but the person.

If time permits, we will also briefly discuss male depression, one of the biggest killers. The goal of this workshop is to offer some signposts on the path to being more comfortable as a man, and for those that are comfortable to offer up some of their own experiences.

In writing this I was tempted to suggest this be a men's only workshop, however women play a big role in how men see themselves. If you are comfortable with your partner attending, feel free to invite her.
